Supplementary explanation:

- The section of “No. 5 Textile articles that are exempted from application” in Yakuseikahatu 0260 No. 10 Notice on Amended Ministerial Ordinance to Note dated June 20, 2016 specifies as follows:

“Out of textile articles, “Japanese tenugui” and those articles that partly use “wafuku” or Japanese clothing as materials shall be treated in the same way as “wafuku” for the time being. Also, 1) articles used exclusively for interior decoration and appreciation, and 2) articles that use unspun materials shall be exempted from application.”

Supplementary note:

Framed “tenugui” for sale and tapestries and others hanging on the wall seem to be included in 1) and articles that use bamboos and mat rushes seem to be included in 2). However, final decisions will be made by the Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare.

- It is specified that “as it is difficult to identify raw materials of the recycled (used) articles and articles that use the materials of recycled (used) articles (an example would be articles that use recycled cotton or wool yarn. However, the Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare will make final decisions), such fact shall be taken into account in formulating a trial purchase plan for two years from the enforcement date (excluding articles that are redyed).” Accordingly, application is extended for a limited period.
- For the category of household textile articles for which the standards were created, it is stipulated to refer to the list of Standard Commodity Classification for Japan prepared by the Ministry of Internal Affairs and Communications \(amended in May 1990 \(Fifth amendment\)\) and the “list of textile article classification,” an annex of the Notice on Amended Ministerial Ordinance to Note in identification of specific items. The following table includes some of applicable articles that use azo dye.
- For the entire “list of textile article classification,” see “Kanki No. 48 dated February 17, 1975 for points to note in operation of the Act on Control of Household Products Containing Harmful Substances.”
